The appointment of the President of the University of New Brunswick as minister of fisheries continues to be the subject of much interesting political discussion in the nation's capital. As sergeant at arms in the House of Commons for many years Milton Gregg, V.C. won the admiration of all who knew him for his broad liberal outlook and marked ability. Few doubt that he will be elected by a substantial majority if he is chosen to run in York-Sunbury, a seat left vacant by the death of Hon. Frank Bridge.

Our World Relations
It is obvious to this observer that the implications and conditions of our world relations continue to be the most provocative and interesting consideration in the minds of public spirited Canadians. Two recent statements have contributed a rather serious shock to our thinking. When Under Secretary of State Mike Pearson said that if the United Nations was dissolved some other international organisation would have to take its place he shook rudely the complacency of large numbers who felt that it was making progress in spite of exaggerated publicity. "What will happen if the United Nations dissolves" is the obvious question and the obvious answer is one that few like to mention. That Marxist Russia is the main cause of the danger surprises no one who studies the socialist philosophy. It is inherent in the socialist theory that accord and peace in the world cannot be permitted until after it has accepted the socialist "ideology."

Howe is Frank
The second shock to our thinking came from Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe when he spoke to the Liberal Summer Conference at McMaster University last week. In serious mood Mr. Howe said that the dangerous situation we faced on account of the disastrous British economic crisis was not less dangerous than any we have faced in our history.

After careful study of the situation Mr. Howe, in moderate and restrained language, showed how the seriousness of the British situation was greatly increased and British recovery delayed, because the Socialist government of that country put the welfare of their ideology ahead of the welfare of their people. He could not disguise his feeling that it was a cruel thing to sacrifice a suffering and gallant people for party purposes.

International Political Parties
Students of political affairs are watching carefully the movement to create an international socialist party. The first international political party was the "Communist International". Its purpose was to break down national loyalties in order to prepare the way for the socialist revolution permitted by Marxist and it has had considerable success in much of Europe. The result is not a happy one for the suffering and starved of that continent. Now we have the Socialist Party in Canada calling a meeting with socialist parties of other empire countries.

There are many who believe that our international relations should be conducted only by our democratically elected government through the United Nations if we are to achieve peace and prosperity. In this way our proper national loyalties can be maintained to serve the welfare of our people. Too many nations have been stabbed in the back by some of their own people who claimed allegiance to what they called a "higher" socialist loyalty. The greatest and most effective trade unions recognized this when they opposed affiliation with world wide trade union organizations.

Political Partnerships
Rumors and suggestions of collusion and understanding between the Progressive Conservative party and the Social Creditors continue to be heard. Most supporters of Social Credit here deny any association with the "Tories." While the two parties do seem to agree on many points this observer does not see substantial evidence of any mutual understanding. It is remembered here that the old party of Sir John A. MacDonald changed its name to acquire John Bracken, a former Liberal, as leader. Social Creditors do not take kindly to any such plan of absorption.

Burning Stubble

Farmers are again advised that they must secure a permit before starting stubble fires. A black strip 20 feet wide must surround the area to be burnt and three adult persons must guard the fire until burning is complete.

The present dry condition of many stubble fields make them very susceptible to fire and if a fire gets out of control a great deal of damage can be done before the fire is stopped. The farmer starting a fire that gets away is liable to a fine as well as being held responsible for any damage done.

Fall burning of stubble is a very dangerous practice, besides the fire menace at the time of burning. Burnt over fields are very susceptible to serious erosion from both wind and water. With the combination of an open winter and a dry spring soil erosion can become a very serious problem and burnt over fields are more liable to erode than summerfallow fields. Trash cover is one of the main essentials in controlling soil erosion by either wind or water. When the stubble is worked into the soil the water holding capacity of the soil is greatly increased, the trash also serves to decrease the velocity of the wind near the soil surface and also binds the soil together.

Farmers should very seriously consider the damage they are doing to the soil before they burn the stubble. If they find stubble burning necessary permits may be obtained from the field supervisor or the local councillor.

Good Idea Comes From Australia

In an effort to raise the status of domestic workers several Sydney (New South Wales) women's organizations are advocating the abandonment of such terms as "servant" and "maid". They are insisting that all women employed in the home should be addressed as Miss or Mrs. in the same way as social and industrial workers. The president of the Housewives Progressive Association suggests that the term "home trainee" should be used for young girls just beginning domestic careers and "home associates" for more experienced workers. Older women might be called "home aids".

Agricultural Publications

One of the important functions of the Line Elevator Farm Service is to serve as a general information bureau, on practical and technical problems, for farmers, country grain buyers, and others. For this purpose we have published a series of agricultural publications not available from other sources. Our bulletins and circulars have become popular not only with farmers, but also, with rural school teachers and pupils.

Back to School. Schools are reopening all over the countryside. Every day, we are receiving requests from many teachers and students for literature on agricultural subjects. Our own experience in this matter indicates that, in Western Canada, there is a very urgent need for a series of publications dealing with the agricultural industry suitable for public and high schools. Although Line Elevators Farm Service publications were not prepared as agricultural textbooks for schools, many of them will be helpful to rural teachers and students in school studies.

Bulletins and circulars dealing with the following subjects are available: Water Erosion of Soils, Weeds, Ornamental Shrubs and Trees, Field Crop Insects, Growing Small Fruits, Smut and Root Rot Diseases of Cereals, Field Crop Varieties, and D.D.T. on the Prairie Farm. Copies may be obtained through any Line Elevator Agent, or directly from Line Elevators Farm Service, Winnipeg or Calgary.

An Acknowledgment. It is again a pleasure to acknowledge the generous assistance of many distinguished agriculturists in the preparation of these publications. We have been most fortunate in enlisting their support and assistance. Line Elevators Farm Service bulletins and circulars have been prepared by the best agricultural specialists in Western Canada. The information they contain is up-to-date and authoritative and, as a result, they have become exceedingly popular with the farming public.

Of The Record

With the price of oil and coal continuing to rise still further it is expected that Canadians will have to spend much more money for fuel this coming winter. Yes, in order to keep warm they'll really need to have money to burn this year.

Timeliness Important

In the rush of harvest work do not forget the summerfallow. H. J. Mather, supervisor of soil conservation and weed control for the Alberta department of agriculture warns that from now until freeze up is the critical time for cultivation of perennial weeds. Thistles neglected during this period will store a great deal of plant food in their roots and will be strong and sturdy to begin the battle next spring.

In areas where cutworms were plentiful this year some delay in summerfallow operations will be necessary. For cutworm control the field should remain undisturbed until the flight of the moths is over. Immediately following cultivation should again get under way and the operation carried through.

This year's crop is important but there are other crops to follow. Cultivation continued until freeze up will more than repay the effort required.

Late Summer Best Time to Seed Lawn

The best time of the year for seeding lawns is during the latter half of August if the soil is in good condition and free from weeds. By then there will have been ample opportunity for destroying all seedling weed plants. Late summer seedling usually receives ample moisture and cool nights to favor germination and the rapid development of a dense turf. Such a new lawn may become well established before another crop of weeds such as dandelions occur to compete with the growth of new grass.

A good lawn seed mixture is one half pound Red Top, one half pound Kentucky Blue Grass and three pounds Creeping Red Fescue seed per 1,000 square feet for a small lawn. For larger areas less seed may be used to save expense.

Once a lawn has become established it should be given a certain amount of care to maintain it in good condition. Dandelions and other lawn weeds can readily be kept under control with a selective herbicide with little injury to the grass. To improve the vigour, density and fineness of the turf, old well rotted manure applied each fall at freeze up will help a great deal. An occasional top dressing from time to time, of artificial fertilizer will also prove beneficial but it must be distributed evenly when the grass is dry to avoid burning of the grass. Mixing the fertilizer with screened loam will facilitate even distribution.

White Sidewall Tires Again

Production of white sidewall tires in popular passenger car tire sizes began today at the Dominion Tire Factory in Kitchener, Ont.

The first of these popular tires which ordinarily are optional on all sizes and grades of passenger car tires will be available through dealers across Canada to the motorist who missed these smart additions to his car throughout the war, though he willingly gave them up as part of his contribution to the successful prosecution of the war effort.

While production of white sidewall tires began today they will not reach tire distributors in large quantities for a while.

New Way to Apply 2,4-D

Last fall experiments were conducted on the use of 2,4-D against weeds in fields used for the production of grass seeds. This weedkiller was mixed with fertilizer and applied as a top dressing in the fall. When the grass seed was harvested this season there was a definite reduction in the number of weeds in the treated plots.

All grass seed growers should welcome this new advance since it will mean the production of superior and more acceptable seed. This treatment is not recommended for clover seed producers as clover, unlike the grasses, is not resistant to the action of 2,4-D.

Northern Highway Ready Next Spring

Completion of the 400-mile northern highway, from Grimshaw to Great Slave Lake as a gravelled road does not appear possible this year.

The highway, estimated to cost 2,500,000 is being built by the province and dominion under a joint agreement.

Reports received by the AMA reveal that a 25-mile section on the Alberta side of the road before it reaches the boundary of the NWT, has revealed heavy rock obstructions, slowing down the work crews. Also, there is an absence of sufficient clay for grading purposes making it necessary for this material to be hauled from a great distance. As a result it will not be possible to complete the section of the road within Alberta before spring.

Much of this Alberta section of the highway has been gravelled and has been found to be in good condition.

On the 81-mile stretch in the NWT the dominion is doing the work and has high hopes of finishing it before freeze up, providing weather conditions are suitable.

Barley Contest Shipments Start

Carload entries in the 1947 National Barley Contest sponsored by the brewing and malting industries started arriving in late August at the grain inspection branch in Winnipeg.

A less favorable season than in 1946 may have had some effect on quality. In the southern part of the western region barley area, bad weather has deteriorated both yield and grade. In some of the territorial regions prescribed for the contest, the results may be disappointing but contestants in these regions at least are all on an equal footing.

Barley returns show great variations in yield and grade. Fortunately both are better as one moves north and there is likely to be some good quality product for the final judging.

FLOWER BLOOMS SIX HOURS, THEN KAPUT—

Neighbors and friends watched eagerly from 8 o'clock to midnight as the petals of a night-blooming cereus unfolded here at the home of E. J. Pettit, Mimico, Ont. Petals of the pinkish walnut-sized bud began to curl back to display a pure white bloom which measured nine inches across when fully blown. By early morning the flower had closed, having lived its full life span of one night. Mr. Pettit declared he did not know the age of the plant which was given to him by a friend who had it for many years and despaired of ever seeing a bloom.

Farm Incomes

ALTHOUGH AGRICULTURE IS ONE OF CANADA'S LEADING INDUSTRIES, in which 17.3 per cent of the population is engaged, farmers as a class have not accumulated wealth to the same extent as those connected with other large industries. In fact, farm income in Canada represents only eleven per cent of the total national income. It is true that some farmers are very prosperous, but there are also many who have never enjoyed financial profit in a fair proportion to the amount of money and labor they have invested in their farms. The farmers of Western Canada have continuously sought to improve their lot and many of their demands have received favorable consideration, for there have always been able men and women, both in agricultural organizations and in political circles, who have supported their interests. However, there have also always been groups who have shown little sympathy with the problems of agriculture.

Net Increases Are Not Great

The subject of farm incomes came up during the recent sessions of parliament, and the figures given at that time showed that although net farm income had more than doubled since 1939, farmers are still not enjoying any great measure of prosperity. Actual figures showed that net farm income had increased from $387,000,000 in 1939, to $1,000,000,000 in 1945. In the same period, however, operating expenses had increased from $498,000,000 to $750,000,000. It was also brought to the attention of the people that although farm income had more than doubled in the last seven years, the average cash income realized by farmers prior to 1939 was only $743 per year.

Not Many Pay Income Tax

The low level of farm incomes was further emphasized by the fact that only about 4 per cent of all farmers paid income tax in 1945-46, and almost none in 1944-45. Glaring Headlights Cause Accidents
Every motor accident attributable to the glaring headlights is testimony to the inadequacy of inspection and sporadic police drives as measures of headlight regulations. If the total annual toll of pedestrians and motorists due to headlight glare could be ascertained, it would be impressive enough to inspire insistent demand for remedy. Headlights can be so focused as to properly illuminate the road and avoid blinding the approaching driver. But they will not be generally speaking; and if they do not remain in proper adjustment.

The low level of farm incomes was further emphasized by the fact that only about 4 per cent. of all farmers paid income tax in 1945-46, and although income tax inspectors were appointed to check into the matter of farm income "not more than 7 per cent. of all the farmers in Canada were making an income which the inspectors thought was sufficiently large to pay income tax on or to be checked further." When the importance of agriculture to every part of our national life is considered, it seems regrettable indeed that even in what must be regarded as a period of great prosperity, the cash earnings of the average farmer should be under $2,000 a year. It is not likely that these conditions will be quickly changed, but it is as well that the people should be made familiar with the fact that as things are at present, the average farmer is far from making an income proportionate to his contribution to the national economy.

When transient loafers and drunks appear in court, the lecture from the bench usually ends up with the advice to go out in the country and get an honest job—probably because they are not wanted in the cities.

But this farmer, while admitting that there is work to do on the farms, protests strongly that it is not work which can be done by drunks and loafers. Men in the country have to get up early in the morning and work late at night. It requires brain and brawn. Men who have been riding around the country from one city to another on freight trains, or who have been sitting around for months, or years, waiting for work to come to them, are not physically able to do the work which is required of them on farms.

Glaring Headlights Cause Accidents

Every motor accident attributable to the glaring headlights is testimony to the inadequacy of inspection and sporadic police drives as measures of headlight regulations. If the total annual toll of pedestrians and motorists due to headlight glares could be segregated from the rest of the accident toll, it would be impressive enough to inspire insistent demand for remedy. Headlights can be so focussed as properly to illuminate the road and avoid blinding the approaching driver. But they will not be generally speaking; and if they were, it is well known that they do not remain in proper adjustment.

Good Idea Comes From Australia

In an effort to raise the status of domestic workers several Sydney (New South Wales) women's organizations are advocating the abandonment of such terms as "servant" and "maid". They are insisting that all women employed in the home should be addressed as Miss or Mrs. in the same way as social and industrial workers. The president of the Housewives Progressive Association suggests that the term "home trainee" should be used for young girls just beginning domestic careers and "home associates" for more experienced workers. Older women might be called "home aids". 2738

Answer To Last Week's Puzzle

SEEDTIME and HARVEST
By
F. J. GREANEY
Director,
Line Elevators Farm Service,
Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Agricultural Publications

One of the important functions of the Line Elevator Farm Service is to serve as a general information bureau, on practical and technical problems, for farmers, country grain buyers, and others. For this purpose we have published a series of agricultural publications not available from other sources. Our bulletins and circulars have become popular not only with farmers, but also, with rural school teachers and pupils.

Back to School. Schools are re-opening all over the countryside. Every day, we are receiving requests from many teachers and students for literature on agricultural subjects. Our own experience in this matter indicates that, in Western Canada, there is a very urgent need for a series of publications dealing with the agricultural industry suitable for public and high schools. Although Line Elevators Farm Service publications were not prepared as agricultural textbooks for schools, many of them will be helpful to rural teachers and students in school studies.

Bulletins and circulars dealing with the following subjects are available: Water Erosion of Soils, Weeds, Ornamental Shrubs and Trees, Field Crop Insects, Growing Small Fruits, Smut and Root Rot Diseases of Cereals, Field Crop Varieties, and D.D.T. on the Prairie Farm. Copies may be obtained through any Line Elevator Agent, or directly from Line Elevators Farm Service, Winnipeg or Calgary.

An Acknowledgment. It is again a pleasure to acknowledge the generous assistance of many distinguished agriculturists in the preparation of these publications. We have been most fortunate in enlisting their support and assistance. Line Elevators Farm Service bulletins and circulars have been prepared by the best agricultural specialists in Western Canada. The information they contain is up-to-date and authoritative and, as a result, they have become exceedingly popular with the farming public.

Of The Record

With the price of oil and coal continuing to rise still further it is expected that Canadians will have to spend much more money for fuel this coming winter. Yes, in order to keep warm they'll really need to have money to burn this year.

Timeliness Important

In the rush of harvest work do not forget the summerfallow. H. J. Mather, supervisor of soil conservation and weed control for the Alberta department of agriculture warns that from now until freeze up is the critical time for cultivation of perennial weeds. Thistles neglected during this period will store a great deal of plant food in their roots and will be strong and sturdy to begin the battle next spring.

In areas where cutworms were plentiful this year some delay in summerfallow operations will be necessary. For cutworm control the field should remain undisturbed until the flight of the moths is over. Immediately following cultivation should again get under way and the operation carried through.

This years crop is important but there are other crops to follow. Cultivation continued until freeze up will more than repay the effort required.

Late Summer Best Time to Seed Lawn

The best time of the year for seeding lawns is during the latter half of August if the soil is in good condition and free from weeds. By then there will have been ample opportunity for destroying all seedling weed plants. Late summer seedling usually receives ample moisture and cool nights to favor germination and the rapid development of a dense turf. Such a new lawn may become well established before another crop of weeds such as dandelions occur to compete with the growth of new grass.

A good lawn seed mixture is one half pound Red Top, one half pound Kentucky Blue Grass and three pounds Creeping Red Fescue seed per 1,000 square feet for a small lawn. For larger areas less seed may be used to save expense.

Once a lawn has become established it should be given a certain amount of care to maintain it in good condition. Dandelions and other lawn weeds can readily be kept under control with a selective herbicide with little injury to the grass. To improve the vigour, density and fineness of the turf, old well rotted manure applied each fall at freeze up will help a great deal. An occasional top dressing from time to time, of artificial fertilizer will also prove beneficial but it must be distributed evenly when the grass is dry to avoid burning of the grass. Mixing the fertilizer with screened loam will facilitate even distribution.

White Sidewall Tires Again

Production of white sidewall tires in popular passenger car tire sizes began today at the Dominion Tire Factory in Kitchener, Ont.

The first of these popular tires which ordinarily are optional on all sizes and grades of passenger car tires will be available through dealers across Canada to the motorist who missed these smart additions to his car throughout the war, though he willingly gave them up as part of his contribution to the successful prosecution of the war effort.

While production of white sidewall tires began today they will not reach tire distributors in large quantities for a while.

New Way to Apply 2,4-D

Last fall experiments were conducted on the use of 2,4-D against weeds in fields used for the production of grass seeds. This weedkiller was mixed with fertilizer and applied as a top dressing in the fall. When the grass seed was harvested this season there was a definite reduction in the number of weeds in the treated plots.

All grass seed growers should welcome this new advance since it will mean the production of superior and more acceptable seed. This treatment is not recommended for clover seed producers as clover, unlike the grasses, is not resistant to the action of 2,4-D.

Commercial Printing

Do not try to economize on necessary expenses. Neatly printed business stationery is just as important to your business as any other of your necessary expenses, and it is poor economy to do without it. Blank writing paper and forms on which your name is written in with ink do not raise the prestige of your business. And if it's economy that you want, see us and find that our new prices are most reasonable.

Northern Highway Ready Next Spring

Completion of the 400-mile northern highway, from Grimshaw to Great Slave Lake as a gravelled road does not appear possible this year.

The highway, estimated to cost 2,500,000 is being built by the province and dominion under a joint agreement.

Reports received by the AMA reveal that a 25-mile section on the Alberta side of the road before it reaches the boundary of the NWT, has revealed heavy rock obstructions, slowing down the work crews. Also, there is an absence of sufficient clay for grading purposes making it necessary for this material to be hauled from a great distance. As a result it will not be possible to complete the section of the road within Alberta before spring.

Much of this Alberta section of the highway has been gravelled and has been found to be in good condition.

On the 81-mile stretch in the NWT the dominion is doing the work and has high hopes of finishing it before freeze up, providing weather conditions are suitable.

Barley Contest Shipments Start

Carload entries in the 1947 National Barley Contest sponsored by the brewing and malting industries started arriving in late August at the grain inspection branch in Winnipeg.

A less favorable season than in 1946 may have had some effect on quality. In the southern part of the western region barley area, bad weather has deteriorated both yield and grade. In some of the territorial regions prescribed for the contest, the results may be disappointing but contestants in these regions at least are all on an equal footing.

Barley returns show great variations in yield and grade. Fortunately both are better as one moves north and there is likely to be some good quality product for the final judging.

FLOWER BLOOMS SIX HOURS, THEN KAPUT—

Neighbors and friends watched eagerly from 8 o'clock to midnight as the petals of a night-blooming cereus unfolded here at the home of E. J. Pettit, Mimico, Ont. Petals of the pinkish walnut-sized bud began to curl back to display a pure white bloom which measured nine inches across when fully blown. By early morning the flower had closed, having lived its full life span of one night. Mr. Pettit declared he did not know the age of the plant which was given to him by a friend who had it for many years and despaired of ever seeing a bloom.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

The Colorful Kid

By HOWARD BECKLER

It is a well known fact, that Marty Burns is the smartest bozo in the leather pushing racket, insofar as the managing end of the game is concerned. Everybody is aware of this fact, all the way from the president of the boxing commission down to the man who is hired to tighten up the ropes. Marty himself, in his diffident manner and large checkered vest, would, if pressed, explain the situation briefly, "Well, brother, I ain't exactly no dummy."

He was forever being plagued by slap-happy doddlers, stevedores, and young kids just out of diapers who imagined they were in need of managing. What most of them needed was a keeper or a nurse, but that's where Marty's talents came into play. Out of this mass of assorted cauliflower, he picked his scrappers with the caniness of a connoisseur. That's how he happened to get his hooks onto the Walla Walla Kid, and came to make the one and only mistake of his career.

This knuckle duster came bristling into the office one winter day with a crash and a bang. He tossed six newspaper hounds off the much-scarred mahogany of Marty's desk, and then spoke his piece to the great man himself.

"I can lick anybody in the joint," he told Marty. "Including you, Burns. But I ain't gonna." Marty Burns opened his mouth and closed it again. He was mildly shocked. It was a brand new approach.

"Get this Burns. You're looking at the Walla Walla Kid. I'm good. I'm dynamite with both mitts. I can take it all day, and I move around like Abe Attel. And," he hesitated for a moment. It was plain to see that the choicest morsel was yet to come. "I'm colorful."

Marty took a gander at his big mug and had to admit he had color. "Anything else?"

The Kid considered this. "Yeah. I fight at one fifty-seven, and I got one bad fault."

Marty was really stunned. "No?" "Yeah. I ain't no Einstein, Burns. Not a smart guy. That's why we're going to do each other some good. With your brains and my..."

"O.K. I'll get you Dago Samson at the Armory a week from tonight," that's the way Marty did things. No gymnasium tryouts for his boys. He found out in a hurry whether they had it or they didn't.

Well, this guy had it. He was everything he said and more. He made hamburger steak out of Dago Samson for four rounds, and in the fifth cut loose with a right uppercut that could only be heard. It travelled too fast to be seen with the naked eye. After the referee was through counting, the Kid hung the Dago over his right shoulder and set him down in his own corner, slopped a whole pail of water over him, and then started to make a speech. Colorful? That guy was all the colors of the rainbow with a couple of extra thrown in.

"You're going to be all right, Kid," Marty told him. "And about your brains, I'll take care of that. I've got a set of signals worked out for your next fight. It'll be just as though I'm right in the ring with you. I run my hand through my hair, you cross your right. I pull my left ear, and you hold him off with your left jab. I tweak my nose and you hook him to death with the left."

It's jake with me, boss," the Kid said.

The Kid looked at him. "Your nose itch, boss," he said. No, the Kid wasn't exactly an Einstein.

After that Marty tried every known method of signaling his fighter, but the Kid kept on winning and doing the opposite to what the signal called for. The Kid just couldn't seem to remember from one minute to the next. He kept on winning, but every fight got tougher.

Marty told him, "You're the luckiest guy I ever saw. But one of these days you're going to meet

Orphans Shear 11 Lbs.

Two years ago Mrs. G. Randall, Salt Spring Island, B.C., had two motherless lambs given to her by a neighbor. Although no sheep-raiser herself, Mrs. Randall nursed the lambs, feeding them by bottle.

Recently the grown sheep were clipped, each producing more than 11 pounds of wool, handsomely rewarding Mrs. Randall for her efforts. British Columbia agriculture department officers reported the wool yield well above average, the normal wool clip being about seven and one-half to eight pounds per sheep.

The only two sheep Mrs. Randall owns, they have been pastured in her orchard.

some bozo that knows all the answers, and if I can't tell you what to throw from the corner, you're going to be cold turkey."

"It's jake with me, boss," the Kid said, "about the signals I mean." The next day they signed with Tiger Jones, who was right next to the champ. The Kid was a magnet at the gate.

Marty Burns wore himself to a shadow worrying about the Jones fight. He didn't sleep nights, trying to figure a way to get his brain into the ring with the Kid. He walked the streets. He smoked fifteen cigars a night. The Kid could never take Tiger Jones without his, Marty's help. He was positive of that. Then two days before the fight, the Kid gave him the answer.

He was reading his press notices in the Morning Gazette. "Hey, boss, listen to this: THE WALLA WALLA KID IS PERHAPS THE MOST COLORFUL SCRAPPER TO HIT THE COUNTRY IN A DECADE."

"Colorful," Marty mused. "Colorful. That's it! Colorful, colors!" He slammed the Kid on the back. "You like colors don't you, Kid?"

"It's jake with me, boss." "All right. This is simple, Kid. So simple, I think even you can understand it. Now, listen close," Marty talked slowly to make sure it would penetrate the mystic thickness of the Kid's flaming skull. "I take three cards, of three different colors. I hold up the red card and you cross your right. Green card you jab with the left, and blue card you hook the left. Simple?"

"Simple," the Kid agreed, and this time he actually seemed interested in the idea.

They were hanging from the rafters at the Armory the night of the fight. Tiger Jones didn't waste any time loosening up the Kid's lower lip with a wicked wallop. This satisfied Marty once for all that it was his own brain that would finally win them the fight.

The Kid was eyeing the corner. Marty flashed the green card for a jab, and the Kid tried to cross his right. Jones stepped in and slapped him into the rosin with a murderous uppercut. Marty groaned. How could one guy be so dumb? He got up at five, a little uncertain, and looking for orders.

The Tiger was rushing. Marty flashed the blue card. A steaming left hook would slow the Tiger to a walk. But the Kid was backing away jabbing with his left. The Tiger crashed through and dumped him in the corner for an eight count. That's just about the whole story. Four rounds later, the referee stepped in and pushed a badly beaten Walla Walla Kid to his corner. He had bounced off the boards nine times in four rounds, but he could take a pounding all right. No doubt about that.

Reporters circled Marty and the Kid after he had showered and dressed. "What beat him, Marty?" They shot the question at the little manager.

"His one and only fault beat him," Marty tapped the red head of the Kid. "Nothing between the ears."

The Kid managed a grin through shattered lips. "I've been holding out on you, boss."

"Yeah?" "Yeah, I've got two faults instead of one."

"No?" Marty's eyebrows raised in disbelief. "Yeah. I forgot to tell you that I'm color blind."

Prairie Town Aptly Named

BIENFAIT, Sask. — On railway sidings near this town in the south-east corner of Saskatchewan, rows of coal cars replace the wheat-laden box-cars normally found on Saskatchewan sidings. And lines of coal tipples replace the grain elevators that are almost inevitable at prairie points.

Early farmers labored unsuccessfully on the thin, unfertile clay. But near the turn of the century, coal was found nearby and since then farmers have turned in slack seasons to the coal mines to augment their incomes.

Early Scottish settlers were driven out by drought in the late 19th century. A wave of French-Canadian settlers followed, but they, too, moved on. It was only when farmers began to burrow for coal in the banks of the Souris River that the town took hold and prospered.

Today approximately 1,500 men earn their living in the deep-seam mines, and civic leaders estimate the town's business is double that of the average farm community in the province. In its early days, it was as "rip-roaring" as any boom mining camp.

But now residents say, "you'd never know it was pay day except to cash the cheques."

VERY GOOD EATERS

When New Zealand's Maoris gather for any function they know how to eat. At a recent opening of a new church, 1,500 natives brought 21 pigs, 200 fowl, 25 head of cattle, 10 tons of potatoes, 10 tons of pumpkin and marrow, 50 cases of fruit, 10 bags of sugar and huge quantities of bread and butter.

GANDHI SADDENED BY DISCARDING THE UNION JACK

NEW DELHI.—M. K. Gandhi said here that "the retention of the Union Jack for such period as India was a dominion was a point of honor."

He told his prayer meeting: "I heard with sorrow at the Congress working committee meetings that the Union Jack was not going to occupy a place on India's national flag."

Gandhi asked Indians not to rejoice over the omission.

THE FARMERS' EXCHANGE

The World of Wheat

Every year at about this time the Crop Testing Plan, and other Crop Improvement Organizations which distribute registered or certified seed, receive frantic calls from farmers who wish to purchase fall rye or winter wheat for immediate sowing. It is soon discovered no supplies of seed are available, for it is seldom indeed that on these prairies a crop of winter rye or wheat is harvested and cleaned up ready for sale by the first week of September. There is, however, a simple method that farmers can adopt to assure to themselves a supply of fall rye or winter wheat seed, and that is to purchase their stocks ten months ahead. Usually there is a good supply available of registered or certified fall rye or winter wheat of desirable varieties in October, November and December. These are the months when farmers who wish to sow these varieties the following year should purchase their stocks and store them safely in their granaries so as to have the good seed ready to sow the following September.

Experiments have shown the most desirable time to sow fall rye or winter wheat, to best assure its survival, is during the first week in September.
